Name: Lesley Rushton

Position: Deputy Editor

I have read and understood the BMJ policy on declaration of interests and declare the following interests:

I am a Principal Investigator on a project to estimate the causes of COPD in the UK through development and use of a module to collect life-time work histories from UK Biobank cohort participants (funded by the UK HSE) and a collaborator on a randomised controlled trial (funded by the National Institute for Health Services Research) of interventions for preventing occupational irritant hand dermatitis in the NHS and a recently completed study to estimate the burden of work-related cancer and respiratory disease in the Singapore construction industry (funded by the Singapore Government Ministry of Manpower). I am an adviser on the Australian Work Exposures Study, the Canadian study on Preventing the Burden of Occupational Cancer in Canada and the French study to estimate the proportion of cancer attributable to lifestyle and environmental factors in metropolitan France, and am a member of the Advisory Expert Group of EU-OSHA project on estimation of European costs of work-related injuries, illnesses and deaths.

I am a member of the: UK Committee on Carcinogenicity of Chemicals in Food, Consumer Products and the Environment; the Health and Safety Executive Science and Engineering Assurance Committee; the ICOH Working Group on occupational cancer.

I am a member of the International Editorial Board of the journal La Medicina del Lavoro.

I am employed by Imperial College London in the School of Public Health.
